
Subject: What do YOU make in salary?

Posted by David Fanning on Wed, 09 Jan 2008 03:43:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Folks,

Andrew Cool points out an interesting study that compares the remuneration of researchers in the public and private sectors in countries around the world. We don't have it too bad in the United States, but Austria, The Netherlands, Israel and Switzerland are places you might consider working. China is out, at least for the time being. Check back in 20 years when they are on the verge of taking over the world. :-)

Interesting reading:

http://ec.europa.eu/eracareers/pdf/final_report.pdf

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>

Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

Subject: Re: What do YOU make in salary?

Posted by Andrew Cool on Thu, 10 Jan 2008 00:08:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jan 9, 1:43 pm, David Fanning <n...@dfanning.com> wrote:

> Folks,

>

> Andrew Cool points out an interesting study that compares
> the remuneration of researchers in the public and private > sectors in countries around the world. We don't have it > too bad in the United States, but Austria, The Netherlands, > Israel and Switzerland are places you might consider > working. China is out, at least for the time being.
> Check back in 20 years when they are on the verge of taking > over the world. :-)

>

> Interesting reading:

>

> http://ec.europa.eu/eracareers/pdf/final_report.pdf

David,

You neglect to point out that Australia outperforms the USA amongst the non-EU countries.

Page 55 of the report shows average Oz income at E64000 compared to E60000 for the USA.

The links below might be of interest to people seeking a career in the sun. Although I should point out that today's forecast for my city, Adelaide, is 42C. It's now 10:39a.m. and already 39.2C

But then, I've already been down to the coast this morning and enjoyed the long, white sandy beach and a swim.

<http://www.mobility.org.au/>
<http://www.dsto.defence.gov.au>
<http://www.csiro.au/>

Cheers,

Andrew

Subject: Re: What do YOU make in salary?
Posted by wgallery on Thu, 10 Jan 2008 20:33:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jan 9, 7:08 pm, Andrew Cool <andrew.c...@dsto.defence.gov.au> wrote:

> On Jan 9, 1:43 pm, David Fanning <n...@dfanning.com> wrote:

>

>> Folks,

>

>> Andrew Cool points out an interesting study that compares

>> the remuneration of researchers in the public and private

>> sectors in countries around the world. We don't have it

>> too bad in the United States, but Austria, The Netherlands,

>> Israel and Switzerland are places you might consider

>> working. China is out, at least for the time being.

>> Check back in 20 years when they are on the verge of taking >> over the world. :-)

>

>> Interesting reading:

>

>> http://ec.europa.eu/eracareers/pdf/final_report.pdf

>
> David,
>
> You neglect to point out that Australia outperforms the USA amongst > the non-EU countries.
> Page 55 of the report shows average Oz income at E64000 compared to > E60000 for the USA.
>
> The links below might be of interest to people seeking a career in the > sun. Although I should point out that > today's forecast for my city, Adelaide, is 42C. It's now 10:39a.m. and > already 39.2C
>
> But then, I've already been down to the coast this morning and enjoyed > the long, white sandy beach and a swim.
>
> <http://www.mobility.org.au/http://www.dsto.defence.gov.auhttp://www.csiro.au/>
>
> Cheers,
>
> Andrew

42C? For those of us like me who, after 35 years as a meteorologist, are still Metric Impaired, do you need a jacket?

Subject: Re: What do YOU make in salary?
Posted by [Paul Van Delst\[1\]](#) on Thu, 10 Jan 2008 20:49:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bill Gallery wrote:

> On Jan 9, 7:08 pm, Andrew Cool <andrew.c...@dsto.defence.gov.au>
> wrote:
>> The links below might be of interest to people seeking a career in the >> sun. Although I should point out that >> today's forecast for my city, Adelaide, is 42C. It's now 10:39a.m. and
>> already 39.2C
>>
>> But then, I've already been down to the coast this morning and enjoyed >> the long, white sandy beach and a swim.
>>
>> <http://www.mobility.org.au/http://www.dsto.defence.gov.auhttp://www.csiro.au/>
>>
>> Cheers,
>>
>> Andrew
>
> 42C? For those of us like me who, after 35 years as a meteorologist,

> are still Metric Impaired, do you need a jacket?

A jacket in 107.6F heat? I guess you could wear one, but they'd take you away...
