Congratulations! Your guide and tools are really helpful to me.
My poor English cannot describe my appreciation fully.
By the way, are the resources, I mean tips and IDL programs, still open to others?

For the time being, yes. But I just got back from an all-hands meeting and apparently Coyote has plans to make part of the site "restricted" to paying customers only. Something about "Ruby on the rails". I told him I wasn't interested in hearing any more about his girlfriends, thank you very much! I'm not in a very good mood this morning. :-(

Cheers,

David

Wow! I've also heard of people talking about "Ruby on Rails". That lady must really get around!

Congratulations!

on a non-related note, i just got my beta of IDL 8.0.
The workbench works GREAT!

Cheers,
bob

In America this hilarity goes on all day. But it gets significantly harder to fool someone after about lunch time. You have to work a LOT harder at it.

The easy pickings are the ol' cellophane over the toilet joke for the groggy teenager, just getting out of bed in the morning.

David
