

---

Subject: Re: Hey! You can execute multi-line statements from the IDL command prompt!

Posted by David Fanning on Mon, 16 Mar 2009 23:30:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Ed Hyer writes:

```
> Like this:
>
> IDL> .run
> - for i=0,2 do begin
> - print, i, "things."
> - endfor
> - end
> % Compiled module: $MAIN$.
>      0things.
>      1things.
>      2things.
```

Oh, please, let's not put newbies in that old testament editor or we'll never be able to get any work done. ;-)

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>

Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

---

---

Subject: Re: Hey! You can execute multi-line statements from the IDL command prompt!

Posted by natha on Tue, 17 Mar 2009 12:38:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Or like this. (& $)

```
FOR i=0, 5 DO BEGIN & $
FOR j=0, 2 DO BEGIN & $
PRINT, i & $
PRINT, j & $
ENDFOR & $
ENDFOR
```

---