Hi,

I just found out that my 'spiffy' set of three font selections for my GUI software are not available on a machine down the hall. I don't want to use the drab (hardware?) font for everything but don't know which fonts are 'universal'. Are there universal fonts I can use (three of them perferrably)? Or is there a way I can just check to see if some top font choices, hardcoded in, are available?

In other words, how would YOU do a GUI with three fonts:

- 1 - standard
- 2 - for special messages (want this one to stand out a bit)
- 3 - a fixed one for displaying tabular data in a window

??

Thanks,

--Brian
