
Subject: Re: Johns Hopkins IDL usr library
Posted by sterner on Tue, 23 May 1995 07:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

johnnh@gerbil.umds.ac.uk (System Manager) writes:

> I've just installed our shiny new copy if IDL :-)
> I've also been trying to download a copy of the IDL user library > from Johns Hopkins (JHU/APL) from the site fermi.jhuapl.edu > However, I can't seem to get a good enough connection (even at > 9:00 am our time). Can any kind soul point me towards an > ftp-able copy within these shores?
> Thanks!

Our site was down from Friday, May 19th at about 6 pm until about 8 am Monday morning May 22 (Eastern Daylight Time (GMT - 4 hours)).
The power was out labwide to install a new transformer.

Next weekend, May 26 to May 29, there may also be problems reaching this site. After that it should be all clear for awhile.

Sorry for the inconvenience.

Ray Sterner sterner@tesla.jhuapl.edu
The Johns Hopkins University North latitude 39.16 degrees.
Applied Physics Laboratory West longitude 76.90 degrees.
Laurel, MD 20723-6099
WWW Home page: <ftp://fermi.jhuapl.edu/www/s1r/people/res/res.html>
