
Subject: Re: Updating in Workbench request for username and password (!?)

Posted by David Fanning on Tue, 22 Dec 2009 18:28:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jaime writes:

- > When I start Workbench it looks for updates but it asks for a User
- > name and password. I have unsuccessfully tried the username and
- > password that I use to access <http://www.ittvis.com/>. Have you seen
- > this behavior before?
- >
- > I would like to solve this issue specially because it pops up a window
- > asking for the information several times upon start.

Weird. :-)

Under Window->Preferences->General->Startup and Shutdown, you can find the Automatic Updates Scheduler. I would try turning that off.

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>

Sepore ma de ni thue. ("Perhaps thos speakest truth.")
