Subject: Re: Reading DICOS format with IDL Posted by Mike[2] on Wed, 20 Jan 2010 16:03:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jan 19, 12:56 pm, Mark Quigley <mfsquig...@gmail.com> wrote:

> Hello all,

>

- > The boss wants me to read DICOS format files, which are supposedly
- > derived from DICOM files. I've used the IDL routines and some home
- > brewed stuff to read DICOMs, but I can't fnd any useful information on
- > DICOS. Does anyone have any experience with this stuff, or know the
- > location of information/routines?

I've read lots of DICOM with IDL - Can you share a sample image?

Mike

Subject: Re: Reading DICOS format with IDL Posted by Mark Quigley on Thu, 21 Jan 2010 15:04:21 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Jan 20, 11:03 am, Mike <michael.mill...@gmail.com> wrote:

> On Jan 19, 12:56 pm, Mark Quigley <mfsquig...@gmail.com> wrote:

>

>> Hello all,

>

- >> The boss wants me to read DICOS format files, which are supposedly
- >> derived from DICOM files. I've used the IDL routines and some home
- >> brewed stuff to read DICOMs, but I can't fnd any useful information on
- >> DICOS. Does anyone have any experience with this stuff, or know the
- >> location of information/routines?

>

> I've read lots of DICOM with IDL - Can you share a sample image?

_

> Mike

Probably not. The information will likely have some sort of low-grade confidential classification.

I was just hoping someone could say, sure, the DICOM read/write programs in IDL will work fine for DICOS, or else have some insight into the differences.

Thanks,

Mark