Folks,

I just wanted to give a shout out to Mark Hadfield and his Motley Library. Apparently I have spent the last week or so unknowingly duplicating about half the functionality that is already provided there.

Apparently, it doesn't receive half the recognition it deserves. (Maybe no one can find it!) In any case, it's good stuff and deserves to be more widely known. From now on, I intend to study it closely before I write yet another program!

Cheers,

David
