Subject: Integrator taking vectors as input? Posted by elias on Wed, 26 May 2010 07:22:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi,

I was wondering if an IDL integrator exists where it can accept vectors instead of scalars as inputs for upper and lower limits of the integral. I want to apply it to big datasets and I want to avoid using loops, which tend to be much slower.

Thanks a lot,

Elias