
Subject: NSIDC Looking for Science Programmers
Posted by David Fanning on Thu, 29 Jul 2010 22:18:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Folks,

The National Snow and Ice Data Center in Boulder, CO is looking for science programmers.

http://nsidc.org/about/jobs/nsidc_13.html

Knowledge of IDL is not considered a handicap for this position. ;-)

I can vouch for both Boulder and for the good folks at NSIDC. There are extremely bright, capable people working at NSIDC these days, doing really good climate research. And Boulder is God's Green Earth for technical people who like to spend time out-of-doors. Bring your bikes, climbing ropes, tennis rackets and skis. You are going to use them a LOT!

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>

Sepore ma de ni thue. ("Perhaps thos speakest truth.")
