Yes, sure. The French bookstores do it all the time. :-(

PDF files are extremely easy to rip off. The only hope you have is that you have enough of a relationship with your customers that they take pity on you and respect the work you do enough to pay you something for it.

I have no particular complaints, but I do worry a LOT about it, especially when that becomes a major source of income.

Just order the book from the store. Anyone can download from the link that is sent to you automatically.

Cheers,

David
