Subject: Re: Official "release" of Coyote and Catalyst Libraries
Posted by Paul Van Delst[1] on Wed, 13 Oct 2010 15:15:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning wrote:
> Folks (and Paul van Delst, in particular),
>
> We have created an official "released" version of the > Coyote and Catalyst Libraries in the public SVN > repository. Users concerned with stability can > download from the release versions. On-going development > will continue in the trunk versions.

Yay! David, you are so great, so treMENDously huge, that I bow down before thee.

Now, excuse me as I go and create an svn:externals link in my own repository.....

cheers,

paulv

>
> We don't currently have a release "schedule", but we > expect 2-3 releases per year, as required.
>
> You can learn more here.
>
>   http://idl-coyote.googlecode.com/
>
> Cheers,
>
> David
>
>

Subject: Re: Official "release" of Coyote and Catalyst Libraries
Posted by David Fanning on Wed, 13 Oct 2010 15:18:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Paul van Delst writes:

> Yay! David, you are so great, so treMENDously huge, that I bow down before thee.

We could use more people like Paul around here! ;-)

Cheers,

David

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")