Folks,

I promised myself a book draft finished "by the end of the year," and I managed to write the last word of the last chapter at 7:52 tonight!

I'm going to go get a shower and a beer (not necessarily in that order). But I wanted to wish everyone a Happy New Year! :-)

Cheers,

David

Happy new year to you too David !

I'm looking forward to seeing your new book.

By the way, I started writing the article about ANSI character for your web site. I will let you know when I will finish it. Sometimes it takes me time to write and explain things in English.

I also want to see the cover of your book (if some of my images are on it). If you still want to send me a copy we'll be in touch.

Best wishes to you and to the IDL community.
