Hi folks,

I'm going through the demo steps to compile C code into a DLL for IDL given here:

<http://www.exelisvis.com/Support/HelpArticlesDetail/TabId/219/ArtMID/900/ArticleID/13849/How-to-compile-a-64-bit-C-DLL-using-MVS-2010-and-run-it-in-IDL.aspx>

I installed "Visual Studio Express - desktop" - the closest I could find to the suggested "Visual Studio Express 2010".

The installation created a variety of different pre-configured command prompts. I got furthest with "Developer Command Prompt for VS2015", which leads to the following output:

C:\Program Files (x86)\Microsoft Visual Studio 14.0>cd "C:\Program Files\Exelis\IDL84\bin\bin.x86_64"
C:\Program Files\Exelis\IDL84\bin\bin.x86_64>idl.exe
IDL Version 8.4, Microsoft Windows (Win32 x86_64 m64). (c) 2014, Exelis Visual Information Solutions, Inc.
Installation number: 86717.
Licensed for use by: Freie Universitaet Berlin

but there are obviously problems in that compilation. I don't much understand what they relate to. Is anyone here who is familiar with this procedure able to help me out?

cheers,
Greg
