
Subject: Re: PRINTING IN IDL4.0

Posted by davidf on Fri, 02 May 1997 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Mulei from Dartmouth Medical School writes:

- > i have only recently been introduced to the IDL language and i am
- > writing
- > code to send output directly to the printer instead of to a window - i
- > am using Windows 3.11.

I think you are going to have to wait for IDL 5.0 to send output directly to the printer, probably.

- > is there a way to plot multi-plots and images on a window and send the
- > window to the printer or just send the plots or images to the printer
- > directly using IDL code? i know about set_lot and setting the filename
- > to
- > something other 'win', for example 'ps' or 'hp' but these don't seem to
- > work.

Oh, I'm pretty sure these work. :-) See the articles on how to produce Perfect PostScript Output on my web pages.

Cheers!

David

David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting
Phone: 970-221-0438 Fax: 970-221-4762
E-mail: davidf@dfanning.com
IDL Programming Tips: <http://www.dfanning.com>
