
Subject: Re: IDL and Solaris 2.5.1 x86 ->
Posted by steinhh on Fri, 20 Mar 1998 08:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Christian Basler wrote:

[...]

> Could it be possible that IDL's memory management causes to swap everything > (inclusive CDE)? And why is the boot sector damaged afterwards?

No decent operating system would allow any application to do such a thing, even if it tried to do so deliberately (as long as the program is not being run by the super user, that is).

So I wouldn't blame this on IDL....

Stein Vidar
