
Subject: Installing IDL on an AlphaSX64 running RedHat Linux

Posted by jhallum on Mon, 21 Sep 1998 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Has anyone here had any success installing IDL on machine running this type of configuration?

-jeremy

+=====+

Do you believe...all the things you are seeing are true?

The Start is where the End is leading you

Do you believe...all's as twisted as one would percieve?

Seek the answer, and soon you'll believe.

-Symphony X Through the Looking Glass

+=====+

Jeremy Hallum, Assistant System Manager & Grad Student,

Astronomy, Boston University/jhallum@bu.edu::jhallum@dreamt.org

Subject: Re: Installing IDL on an AlphaSX64 running RedHat Linux

Posted by pit on Mon, 28 Sep 1998 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In article <6u63ai$igr$1@news1.bu.edu>,
jhallum@bu.edu (Jeremy Hallum) writes:

> Has anyone here had any success installing IDL on machine running
> this type of configuration?

No, but just try to install the standard Alpha binary, it should run.
At least, that is how we did it with our Sparc Machine: We installed
Linux (Debian), over the old SunOS 4.1 and just used the old sparc binary of IDL. Eventually, you may need some of the old libraries, too.

Peter

--

~~~~~
~~~~~

Peter "Pit" Suetterlin <http://www.uni-sw.gwdg.de/~pit>

Universitaets-Sternwarte Goettingen

Tel.: +49 551 39-5048 pit@uni-sw.gwdg.de

-- * -- * ...-- * -- * ...-- * -- * ...-- * -- * ...-- * --

Come and see the stars!
Sternfreunde Breisgau e.V.

<http://www.kis.uni-freiburg.de/~ps/SFB>
Tel.: +49 7641 3492
